JUROR'S STATEMENT

First let me say it was an honor to be asked to participate as the juror for the 2017 Pee Dee Regional. Over the last few years I have begun to recognize the amount of artistic talent in South Carolina, especially in the Pee Dee, and it was gratifying to see the diversity of entries into this year's competition.

There were many pieces that made the judging thought provoking. Yvette Cummings work, When the Magpie Came, created a benchmark for the selection process by demonstrating the best qualities of fundamental skill, aesthetic balance, composition and conceptual strength. The other award-winning works represented equal attention to those artistic principles.

As a teacher, I always encourage my students to apply themselves in all aspects of their art, to make good artistic decisions which will set a standard for themselves that they can aspire to throughout their entire lives.

In my professional life as a comics artist, I am often reminded of the advice of my own teacher, Tyrone Geter, who taught me how important it was to engage in a critique with myself.

Art competitions produce the kind of feedback that is necessary for artistic growth and confidence; let these be teaching moments. Do not be discouraged by others' judgment, but always use the best your own.
